

Published based on Dude Builds His Own Rolls Royce Phantom

Dude Builds His Own Rolls Royce Phantom

Young Ruslan Moukanov, from Kazakhstan, fell in love with the luxurious Rolls Royce Phantom ever since he saw some pictures of it a few years ago, while sitting in the local library. Tormented by the desire to own a Phantom, Ruslan realized he couldn't just buy a 500,000 euro car, so he found a way around that.

Using his master-tuner skills, the young Kazakh managed to transform his old Mercedes into a shiny Rolls Royce Phantom. He built the car-kit himself and managed to get his hands on the needed parts. If you don't count the time and effort involved, this Rolls Royce Phantom cost just 3,000 euros to make. And it looks amazing!

You can also find this article published on Dude Builds His Own Rolls Royce Phantom, and on the tag pages foto art, foto mobil, gambar unik.